

was thick and high colored, he slept badly, could not work, and was low spirited, restless, and uneasy. What he suffered from was indigestion, which was enough to cause him to become chronic dyspepsia and nervous prostration.

Now let us see how he fared with our friend Mr. Green, the postman. He goes on to say: "When I drew my breath it was like a knife running through my chest. My appetite was lost, and I fell away to nothing. As I have to walk twenty miles a day in the discharge of my duties, the work in my mind was not doing me any good. Before I was taken ill I was a strong, healthy man, and did my work with ease and pleasure. Finally I had to go on the sick list, and was attended by a physician for a fortnight, but I did not get better. There was a load on my chest, and when I ate anything the food lay on my stomach like a ton of lead."

"One day my wife said to me: 'Frederick, my mother used to suffer the way you do, and she always found relief by taking Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup. Why don't you try it?' After some persuasion I gave my doctoring and got a bottle of Seigel's and began. The first few doses made me feel better. I stuck to Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup, and in a few weeks I was strong and well back to my work. I have never altered anything since, and for my recovery I owe to thank God and Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup."

Mr. Green has been postman in the Shortlands district for fifteen years, and has an excellent character. If there had been a window in his stomach, his friends might have observed the same trouble that occasionally appeared in the case of St. Martin.
